

PHOTOGENEALOGY.CO.UK

September 2022

A quick update from Photogenealogy HQ...

Plans for the photogenealogy book and business are proceeding slowly but surely. I will have more information about their progress in future newsletters.

Feedback about the articles has been very positive. Step 3 was recently published. I'm about to proof step 4 for publication in the November issue. The final step, 5, was recently submitted to the fantastic team at Family Tree Magazine for publication in the December issue.

If you have missed any articles, you can purchase the relevant issue from Family Tree back issues.

The free bonus information which is available for each step can be downloaded from the Photogenealogy downloads page. The downloads will be available until March 2023.

My talks schedule is now available on the Photogenealogy talks page.

 Photogenealogy - An Introduction 11th February at 10.30am (UK) for the Society of Genealogists More information & booking	 Photogenealogy - An Introduction 21st June at 7.30pm (UK) for the Family History Society of Cheshire Information coming soon
--	---

The talk for the Society of Genealogists is in February and is open to everyone. You can book your place on the SOG website.

I am working on a series of talks focussing on different elements of photogenealogy.

I will keep the talks page updated on the website and include information about new talks in future newsletters.

My latest project is camera scanning. A fast and versatile but relatively expensive method for capturing high-quality digital scans. It comes with a steep learning curve and a great sense of achievement!

If you have some time to spare I'd like to recommend this website. It has some fascinating old photos to browse.

And finally, I'd love to hear how you are getting on with your photogenealogy project. You can contact me via the Photogenealogy website, by replying to your newsletter email, or send me a direct message via Twitter @Photogenealogy.

Thanks for your interest in photogenealogy and for signing up for this newsletter. I'm excited to share this journey with you!

Ann

© Ann Larkham 2022 All rights reserved

You have received this newsletter because you signed up at <https://www.photogenealogy.co.uk/>

Ann Larkham is not responsible for the content of third party websites or any malicious software they may contain.